OHIO ASSEMBLY AGAIN IN MOTION

Both Wings Organize By Electing Caucus Nominees.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE READ

Secretary of State Graves Starts the House Machinery In Action, While Lieutenant Governor Nichols Opens the Senate—Shelving of Blenkner and Matchette an Incident of the Democratic Caucus.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—Both branches of the Eightieth Ohio General assembly organized today by electing the Democratic caucus nominees, headed by William Green of Coshocton for president pro tem. of the senate and Charles L. Swain of Cincinnati for speaker of the house.

Lieutenant Governor Hugh L. Nichols, in a neat little speech, started things moving in the senate, and Secretary of State Charles H. Graves opened the house.

Following the election, Secretary Graves turned the gavel over to Speaker Swain.

Governor Harmon's farewell message, delivered today, was the event of the opening session. Legislators gave willing ear as the clerk read the message.

Tomorrow the assembly will meet in joint session to canvass the vote cast in November for constitutional state officers.

Waiting For Cox.

Democratic legislative leaders have fixed a program for the week which provides for midweek adjournment and postponement until after the inauguration of James M. Cox as governor of everything except preliminaries of organization.

Speaker Swain does not intend to hand down the list of house committees until next week, and the same course may be taken by the senate committee on committees. Adjournment to Jan. 13, inauguration day, probably will be taken tomorrow night or Wednesday. It is not planned to take the lid off the hopper and accept introduction of bills this week.

Democratic leaders plan to hold back the flood of proposed bills until after the new governor has transmitted his first message. There is no indication, however, that Senator Green and Representative John H. Lowry of Henry, the two Democratic floor leaders, would not be able to command with ease majorities in each house for the passage of the Cox measures.

Those Who Landed Jobs.

The following caucus nominees, selected at Saturday's caucus, were elected by the senate today: Chaplain, Rev. William A. Perrins, Franklin county; journal clerk, A. J. McKernan, Cuyahoga; message clerk, John F. Cunningham, Dayton; engrossing clerk, A. C. Calhoun, Lorain; enrolling clerk, C. C. Doughty, Franklin; recording clerk, Margaret Green, Coshocton; index clerk, Frank C. Poppleton, Marion.

First assistant sergeant-at-arms, Edward Schweitzer, Delaware; second assistant, James Mitchell, Ottawa; third assistant, Isaac Foster, Putnam; fourth assistant, Jacob M. Styres, Knox.

Caucus selections of Saturday elected by house: Assistant chief clerk, L. L. Faris, Highland; assistant journal clerk, Frank Aid, Ross; chief bill clerk, James B. Lewis; index clerk, John Conway, Hamilton; assistant bill clerk, H. S. Brown, Wood; journal clerk, Charles D. Beck, Hocking; message clerk, Harold D. Sites, Ashland; recording clerk Julia B. Kersting of Paulding; engrossing clerk, M. S. Rebrassier Stark; enrolling clerk, L. Hildreth, Cuyahoga.

First assistant sergeant-at-arms—W. C. Ries, Hardin; second assistant, John D. Schnapps, Cuyahoga; third assistant, Thurman Thompson, Franklin.

FINAL MESSAGE OF THE RETIRING OHIO GOVERNOR

HARMON MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

Message Reviews Work of Last Year.

CHANGES ARE SUGGESTED

Considers New Tax Law Has Been Successful, but That Further Trial Necessary Before Full Benefits Realized—Explains Why He Opposes Building of Penitentiary In the Country—Reviews Work of Board of Administration.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—Governor Harmon today sent the following message to both house of the general assembly:

To the General Assembly:

In fulfillment of my constitutional duty, I have the honor to submit the following information and recommendations:

Taxation.

The subject of greatest and most constant practical importance to every government is that of revenue. This is especially true of governments like our own. As they are formed and conducted for the common welfare only and have no funds except what they take from citizens, fairness in collection and good judgment, with economy, in expenditure are among the absolute conditions of their success and permanence.

With respect to the raising of revenue by the taxation of property, great progress has been made in correcting the gross injustice which long prevailed throughout the state, so that if any citizen is made to pay more than his just share of public expense it s from mere mistake which he may readily have corrected, and if any one pays less it is generally, if not always, because he has been willing and able to cheat the state as well as his neighbors, and thus enjoy protection and other benefits for which he does not pay.

This reform was undertaken only two years ago. Its remarkable success has been due to the hard, able, absolutely fair and impartial work of the state tax commission, seconded by that of the county auditors and backed, when the nature of the undertaking, its purpose and methods came to be generally understood, by public sentiment springing into activity in every quarter. But this reform, like most others, can not be finished and laid aside as a permanent investment. Its fruits, like those of the husbandman, must be produced each year by wisely ordered energy and unflagging diligence, though the work becomes easier after a start has been rightly made.

The first step was to secure the proper valuation of all taxable property according to the constitutional rule, which the people have persistently refused to change. As this was certain greatly to increase the duplicate, the tax rate had to be reduced so as to protect the taxpayers. After careful consideration, it was limited to 1 per cent to cover all levies, state and local, except for sinking fund and bond interest, with a right, on approval by popular vote, to make it not exceeding 1½ per cent for all purposes.

The unfortunate failure of the Edwards bill at the last session has prevented, thus far, full enjoyment of the results in view. The work of elective ward and township assessors has

AN OLD TIMER FINALLY DROPPED

BLENKNER LET OUT

Turning Down of Matchette Causes a Stir In Caucus.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—Among the features of the Democratic house caucus here was the retirement from the post of third assistant sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives of Colonel Frederick Blenkner, who has served the state in the same capacity for 56 years. Only 14 Democrats responded to the appeal of Representative Smith of Butler county to be magnanimous and not retire the old fellow in his declining years. The remainder voted for Thurman Thompson of Columbus, who was placed in nomination as the choice of the Democratic organization of this county.

In the senate Dwight L. Matchette of Darke county, who was the message clerk of the last session, was turned down under the plea of courtesy, after the committee on employes had unanimously recommended his re-election.

This recommendation was withdrawn and the explanation was officially made by Senator William Hass of Delaware, Clerk-elect William V. Goshorn and other members, including President Pro em. William Greene, that the action was taken in response to the protest of Senator Isaac E. Kiser of Miami county, who represents the district in which Matchette resides. Senator Kiser, who failed to put in an appearance and explain his opposition, sent word that the Demo-

Copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

THIS interesting picture was snapped at Trenton, N. J., upon the occasion of William J. Bryan's much talked of visit to President Elect Woodrow Wilson. The distinguished couple were on their way to lunch and were talking of Governor Wilson's recent vacation in Bermuda after their three hour conference over cabinet possibilities and proposed legislation. Governor Wilson (on the left) is telling his possible secretary of state all about the good time he had during his month's rest.

WHITE SLAVERS BEFORE THE BAR

Said to Be Leaders of Gang Operating From New York.

HOUSES ALL OVER COUNTRY

Two Suspected Men, Now on Trial In the East, Alleged by the Police to Be at the Head of a Band of of Procurers and Blackmailers. Both Recently Indicted by the Grand Jury.

New York, Jan. 6.—Department of justice officials today arraigned before Commissioner Shields, on a charge of violating the white slave interstate traffic laws, two men said to be high in the counsels of a gang of white slavers operating from New York, which has connections all over the country. This gang not only has scores of disreputable houses over the country operating for the financial profits of the men at the head, but also uses knowledge gained through its main business as a means for blackmailing.

The men arrested are Joseph Ribuffo of Paterson, N. J., and Frank Filasto of Filasto Brothers, commission merchants of 293 Mott street, which was the alleged quarters of the gang. This gang, members of the department of justice said, employs scores of men in different parts of the country to carry out the gang's wishes.

Two months ago Captain Tracy of the Paterson detectives arrested for

BAIL FOR IRON WORKERS

Secretary of the Union Declares the Money Has Been Pledged.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6. — As an immediate step toward procuring bail for the 32 members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers now in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., J. E. McClory, acting secretary-treasurer of the union, departed for Leavenworth, taking with him blank bond applications for the prisoners to sign. McClory intimated that practically sufficient money or securities had been pledged to obtain the release of all the prisoners except Herbert S. Hockin, who has announced that he will make no appeal.

Very Strange

Washington, Jan. 6.—An alleged spirit inviting him to come to see President Taft to receive an appointment as ambassador to Great Britain resulted in Anthony Hunt of Chicago being locked up by the police. Mr. Hunt, who is about 30, is said to be wealth. Upon being arrested he communicated with the private secretary to Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, who obtained his release from the police and placed him in a private sanitarium.

ACTION LIKELY IN TODAY SESSION

EFFORTS OF POWERS APPEAR SUCCESSFUL

Conciliatory Attitude Shown By Turks and Allies.

London, Jan. 6.—The general situation has ameliorated and the danger of a rupture of the peace negotiations seems to be averted through Turkey making fresh concessions which will enable the allies to enjoy a holiday during the festivities in connection with the orthodox church.

Rechad Pasha seems to have turned into a sphinx, so full of mystery and impenetrability is he, but from authoritative sources it is stated that the powers, through their ambassadors here and at Constantinople, have succeeded in mixing much water with both the allies' and Turkey's wine.

Strong pressure in favor of moderation has been exercised at Constantinople, while the Balkan representatives have been urged to be patient before breaking off the negotiations, especially as they can lose nothing by waiting, their position being better than that of Turkey.

The efforts of the powers appear to be successful on both sides.

Yuletide Tragedy

Candles on Christmas Tree Set Fire to Blowing Curtains.

New York, Jan. 6.—Robert Raetze, an architect, and his wife were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home. Mr. Raetze's two children and Professor John Donall of the Lawrenceville preparatory school, who was visiting the Raetzes, and the servants escaped. The fire was caused by the candles on a Christmas tree on the ground floor, which set fire to some blowing curtains. When the bodies were found the man was leaning above the body of his wife, near an open window on the third floor, as if he had tried to shield her from the flames.

NEW $50,000 HOTEL AT FAMOUS SPRINGS

Company Incorporated to Erect New Seventy-room Hostelry Near Present Sulphur Lick Hotel---Will Commence Work in the Early Spring.

The Sulphur Lick Springs Hotel Company was incorporated a few days ago with a capitalization of $50,000, James A. Baker, D. W. Getter, Allen L. Bradford, E. E. Getter and Alfred McCraig forming the corporation for the purpose of erecting a mammoth new hotel near the present old one, building a new spring house, and converting the present hotel into a bath house, bowling alley and billiard rooms.

The hotel and property has been taken over by the new corporation, and architect Robert Dexter, of Dayton, is engaged in making plans for the new hotel building, which is to be a huge frame building, containing 79 rooms, and which is to be located near the old bowling alley on the hill above the present structure. Work will be commenced just as soon as the weather will permit.

The grounds will be improved, cement walks and steps laid, and by late next summer the place will have undergone some great changes for the better. When the old building is remodeled and converted into lounging rooms, billiard rooms, bowling alley and bath house, it will offer many attractions outside of the big hotel itself, to the many guests who are expected to frequent the new hotel both winter and summer.

It is said the view from the new hotel will be splendid, and the air much better than down in the valley. An autobus will meet all trains and everything will be conducted along modern lines.

Among the incorporators are some Dayton men who have plenty of capital, and who are men who know no such word as fail in a business undertaking.

The new company proposes to conduct the health resort as a real one. It will be open winter and summer, and Dr. C. M. Galloway, of Xenia, will be the house physician in charge at all times. Dr. Galloway has made a study of the curative powers of the waters of the spring for twenty-five years, and will move to the hotel to carry on his work. He is one of the leading physicians at Xenia and is well known to physicians in this county.

Death Summons Widow of Late Col. S. N. Yeoman

End Came Peacefully This Morning at the Home of Her Cousin, Jess W. Smith, in This City.

Mrs. Susan Comly Yeoman, one of Washington's older citizens and the widow of Col. Samuel N. Yeoman, died Monday morning at half past eleven o'clock, at the home of her cousin, Mr. Jess W. Smith on Temple street, after an illness which covered a period of a year.

Col. Yeoman was a pioneer settler of Fayette county and one of the most public spirited citizens that Washington has ever had, identified with the building of every railroad of the town and foremost in every movement of early day progress.

Coming to this city from her home in New Lexington, a bride in 1852, Mrs. Yeoman entered into, with her husband, the making of Washington's most vital history, and her experiences were varied and interesting.

Col. Yeoman was colonel of the 90th Ohio Volunteer Cavalry and Mrs. Yeoman spent the winters of the war with him and the regiment at the front. She ministered to the sick, took an active part in all hospital work and was even under fire in a number of battles. She became so endeared to the soldiers that she was given the title of "Mother of the Regiment", and her claim to the title has always been recognized. At the last annual reunion of the 90th Ohio Volunteer cavalary "Mother Yeoman" was remembered with a box of roses and a beautiful note.

Mrs. Yeoman was 78 years of age. For the last 15 years she made her home with her cousin, Mr. Jess W. Smith, who gave to her the care of a son.

Mrs. W. W. Millikan was also a cousin and Miss Alfaretta, Florence and Grace Ogle, nieces of hers by marriage.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Memorial chapel in the Washington cemetery.

The casket will be opened at Mr. Smith's residence, Wednesday morning until 1:30 p. m.

CAUSE OF THE GRIPPE.

How to Escape Its Dangerous After Effects.

With so much grippe prevalent this winter a few words of advice regarding its cause and treatment will not be out of place.

Grippe is an infectious disease easily taken when the system is in a tired or run-down condition.

The best means of prevention are to keep the blood in good healthy condition, and if the system gets into a weak, run-down condition, take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

A lady from Long Branch, N. J., says: "Grippe left me in a nervous, weakened, run-down condition. After taking three bottles of Vinol I am better and stronger than I have been for years, and I cheerfully recommend Vinol to all who have suffered from the grippe and need strength." (Name furnished on request.)

We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength creator and health restorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down as Vinol, and your money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it. Blackmer & Tanquary, Washington C. H., Ohio.

Minister In Runaway Mishap

GO A LITTLE SLOW.

The possibilities of the Parcels Post, both for weal and for woe are being dwelt on and discussed at length in almost every printed page, which is builded for the patient public to peruse. The people may get a little tired out with this discussion before it is ended, but they should not do so because it is the business of the public. The parcels post is still in its infancy. It's possibilities unfold, especially to those who are inclined to be imaginative, like the wonders of a spring day providing those who study its possibilities view the project with favor.

Should they, however, view the new law with disfavor then, if they have an imagination and allow that imagination to run riot, the possibilities for woe are as black as the bottomless pit itself.

The truth about the whole matter is that the determination of the Postoffice department to go into the express business, must of necessity carry with it revolutionary changes in the method of doing business.

A large portion of the burden of making the fight will, as is usual in such cases, fall upon the country newspapers.

Already, and really in advance of the forming of any sane opinion of the law's worth, the larger city advertising agents are, on behalf of large city concerns, importuning the country press to accept advertising matter for their publications. This of course, with a view to reaching the eye of the local buyer through the local press.

The more conservative members of the country publications are holding off on these proposals until such time as the facts can be obtained and an intelligent and just conclusion reached.

The country press owes a duty to its local advertising patrons—no doubt about that. The country press also owes a duty to the public.

There is much to be said on both sides of this very important question and the publisher of the rural district who bides his time, withholds taking action until he has thoroughly advised himself of just what the developed condition will be, will have less trouble and receive more praise than the man who rushes into action blindly.

For years and years the country merchant and the country publishers have worked side by side in an agreeable and mutually beneficial partnership which developed first, then served the particular community. The three cornered arrangement operative in each one of these distinct country district units has been helpful to all public, merchant, publisher.

Whether a new order of things will be brought about by the parcels post and the "local pride" power of the country communities broken up and done away with is to say the least of it at this time, a debatable proposition.

The strongest argument urged against the parcels post before its adoption was that it would tend too strongly to centralize trade and break up the community trading centers.

Just now when the trend from the country to the city is the gravest menace of the nation, rural editors cannot afford thoughtlessly to rush into an acceptance of foreign business and make of the parcels post, which contains so much of possible good, just what it's enemies declared it would be, a vicious centralizing power.

There must be sane, honest judgment exercised and the tendency to grab the easy money in sight must be checked not only for the sake of that old three-cornered working agreement which has proven such a power in the development of the nation's agricultural district, but because it will be in the end, the best business policy.

Each member of the country community must do his part in the future as in the past, keep abreast of progress, not undertake to stop it, and all will work out well in the final wind-up.

The hasty fellows may rake off a goodly amount of easy money a tthe start, but if it is not at the expense of their own community they will soon fail to secure the "foreign" patronage.

Things We Should Not Do

By Mrs. HETTY GREEN, Richest Woman In the World

DON'T envy your neighbors.

Don't overdress—that is, don't dress flashily—whether you have the means or not, for that will cause envy and jealousy to be aroused in others.

Don't fail to dress warmly. In cold weather low cut gowns and the vanity of some women cause many deaths.

Don't fail to go to church. The church needs you, and you need the church.

Don't eat anything but good, wholesome food. Home cooking is the best.

Don't cheat in your business dealings, for sooner or later your conscience will begin to trouble you, and later you will worry yourself into your grave.

Don't fail to be fair in all things, business and otherwise, and never kick a man when he is down.

Don't forget to be charitable and don't falsify.

Don't forget to take a lot of exercise, of which walking is the best.

Poetry For Today

INSPIRATION.

I show men things they do not see,
So oft they pass them by;
And some have found new things to love.
New splendors in the sky.

I pull the veil from Mystery,
And show her cynic's smile;
Men look a foolish look, and feel
They knew her all the while.

I give a youth the power to tell
Old lore that is like new;
The wise men wag their heads and frown,
And know his words are true.

A beggar played his violin
Where wind folk sob and sing;
I whispered to his heart, and now
He plays before the king.

The crowd saw but the parts of steel
Piled high before their eyes.
'Long to the builder's heart I came—
He saw his tower rise.

I am a guest that comes and goes,
Not lured by throne or mart;
I give to Man the love of Life—
Or else I break his heart.

JUDSON HARMON.

Final Message of The Retiring Governor

proved a failure in Ohio and elsewhere. That bill proposed to substitute for these and for city boards of review a deputy tax commissioner in each county to act under direction of the state commission, with power to employ the necessary assistants.

The bill as drawn placed the choice of the deputies with the state commission, which, for obvious reasons, was the proper, and the only proper, plan. But there were some who wished to prostitute the agencies of the beneficent tax reform to purposes of personal advantage or political jobbery, not seeing or not caring, that this would shrivel and soon destroy the public benefits so ardently desired. An unseemly squabble ensued about the appointing power which prevented the passage of the bill.

I recommend a like law with such changes as study and experience may suggest and that the appointment of their deputies be entrusted to the commission, with full right of removal.

Imperfect as the plan of reform was thus left, the good accomplished under it has attracted attention in other states whose governors and legislators have sought information with a view of adopting it. But the plan has not had a fair trial and will not have until the defect named has been cured. For this reason I recommend that no other changes be made in it except such incidental ones as may be thought necessary to perfect it. I firmly believe that when full results are seen they will be found quite as surprising as the partial ones already secured.

The only further specific recommendation I make is that personal returns and assessments be published and distributed to taxpayers each year, as was done in the late assessment of real estate. It is to the interest of every community to know who the shirkers are, if there be any. Publicity will prove a sogereign remedy in this as in other cases.

Expenditures.

It is a well known fact in political economy that growth in population does not justify a proportionate growth in public expenses. In the message of Feb. 27, 1911, disapproving a bill raising the pay of city election officials, I gave the percentages of increase in population and taxation in the five principal cities during the preceding 10 years, as follows:

	Per Cent Increase in Population.	Per Cent Increase in Taxation.
Cleveland	46.9	92
Cincinnati	11.5	43
Columbus	44.5	145
Toledo	27.8	55
Dayton	36.6	42

Without giving figures, it may safely be said that expenditures have far outstripped growth in the municipalities of the state generally.

In the annual message of 1910 I gave the relative growth of population and expenditures of the state from the general revenue. Taking the figures for 1910, which were not then available, these are:

	Population.	Increase.
1890	3,672,316
1900	4,157,545	14 per cent
1910	4,767,121	14 per cent
	Expenditures.	Increase.
1890	$3,484,806
1900	4,904,769	40 per cent
1910	8,805,751	70 per cent

Prosperity will not long abide in Ohio unless this inordinate growth of taxation is checked, for while it falls directly on taxpayers alone its effects reach all citizens. There are no figures of population in 1911 and 1912, but it is certain that there has been no more than the usual growth, yet the expenditures for 1911 increased 7.8 per cent over those for 1910, while 1912 showed a rise of 6.7 per cent over 1911.

The only recourse the people have for relief in state expenses is constant care and watchfulness on the part of the members of the general assembly, on whose authority there are no restrictions except such as are self-imposed.

But the constitution has wisely required that the general assembly, in providing for the organization of municipalities, shall "restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts and loaning their credits so as to prevent the abuse of such power." The plan of tax reform did this by supplementing the 1 per cent limit of rate with a restriction of the total amount of taxes to be levied each year to that levied in the preceding year, 1910, because, with all property in the state on the duplicate and correctly valued, a 1 per cent rate would doubtless produce a greater revenue than was raised before. To this double limitation we undoubtedly owe a large measure of relief through the care and economy thereby enforced upon public officials.

The last named limit is a necessary feature of the 1 per cent law, and I urge its retention. The amount levied in 1910, with the percentages of increase from year to year allowed for growth in the public needs, will undoubtedly be more than enough for the usual operations of all branches of the public service. And it should be left to the people to decide whether they will pay for unusual undertakings or go without them, or postpone them until they are better able to afford the cost.

It is not easy to deal singly with the zealous advocates of new expenditures and improvements, many of them desirable in themselves. Men usually do not look beyond what has specially enlisted their interest. But with the total amount fixed which may be taken from the earnings and resources of citizens, and a budget commission to apportion this among the various departments, the subject of yearly expenditures has to be considered as a whole, as it ought to be.

A most gratifying and unusual feature of our tax reform has been the acquiescence without litigation in the general raising of valuations, which in many cases has been very large. This is due not only to the general conviction of absolute fairness on all sides, but also to the assurance against imposition which these limitations afford. It would be bad faith as well as bad policy to change them.

I learn that in a few places there has been pinching because a surplus from preceding years, oversight, or other causes prevented a levy for some purposes in 1910. These, however, are exceptional cases which would be met by changing the limit from the amount levied to the amount expended in 1910.

Cost of Common Schools.

I call special attention to the enormous growth of common school taxes. From 1901 to 1911 the total enumeration rose only .056 per cent, the enrollment 7.5 per cent, and the attendance 6.7 per cent, while the taxes, state and local, rose from $15,303,244 to $32,889,424, or 114 per cent.

It will hardly be asserted that there has been a gain in usefulness or efficiency which justifies such a rise in cost. Agriculture has been introduced in the country schools, as it should have been, and four inspectors have been appointed to see that it is properly taught. But the expense of this is very light. And manual training is given in the city schools, but the cost should not be very great.

This really startling jump in the tax figures must be ascribed, in a large degree, to loose management, wastefulness and extravagance. Nobody wishes to stint the children, and a great many persons seem afraid to demand economy or offer criticism lest they be charged with hostility to education. But the more sacred a cause the greater the duty of each and all to protect it from carelessness, incompetency and all unworthiness on the part of those to whose hands it is entrusted.

To these taxes the impositions on citizens by high prices for school books and needless changes in them must be added to find the real cost of our common schools. No duty calls more loudly on you than to safeguard the schools and parents of the state and unwise friends are sometimes more perilous than enemies.

The Treasury.

In 1909 the total disbursments made under acts of the general assembly exceeded the total receipts by $1,032,254, and in 1910 by $507,712. These deficits were made up by drawing on the surplus in the treasury which was doomed to speedy disappearance.

I am glad to state that in 1911 the total receipts exceeded the total disbursements by $104,949, and in 1912 by $914,721. The funds in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year were $4,150,115, as against $3,141,769 in 1911.

The general revenue fund for 1913, as estimated by the auditor, not counting the balance in the treasury, will be $9,932,450. The actual receipts in this fund for 1912 were $10,253,450, and for 1911, $8,890,596.

The anticipated fall in receipts for 1913 is doubtless due to an expected decrease in the liquor taxes under the license system.

It would be bad policy to accumulate a large surplus in the treasury if done by unnecessary taxation, though it makes a fine showing when it is due to economy. But it would be much worse policy, when we find a surplus in the treasury, to spend or encroach upon it, instead of guarding it for emergencies, especially when under the present system of depositing state funds by competitive bidding, the amount of interest received during the year 1912 was $179,163. This is enough to pay the entire cost of the offices of governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and adjutant general, and leave a balance of $8,118.

Pay Patient Law.

This law is working admirably. It provides for payment of the actual cost of maintenance of inmates of the hospitals for the insane when this does not inflict hardship on families or dependents. The total receipts since the law took effect, Aug. 15, 1910, to Nov. 15, 1912, have been $282,429. The expense has been only about 10 per cent and will hereafter be less as the work has been well organized and brought up to date. This more than makes up the loss of revenue due to the abolition of the contract system in the penal institutions.

I see no reason why the same law should not be applied to the feebleminded, epileptic and perhaps some other institutions.

State Board of Administration.

This board, created at the last session, commenced work Aug. 15, 1911, taking the place of 18 separate boards and assuming charge of all the state benevolent, reformatory and penal institutions, but the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home at Xenia, which was excepted for reasons which are wholly unsound.

The first three months were largely taken up by organization and preparation. Nevertheless, a reduction of $73,384 was made from the expenses of the same months in 1910.

The report for the fiscal year ending Nov. 15, 1912, shows a reduction of $499,053 from the expenses of the preceding year, which included the last three months thereof when the board had charge, as above stated.

The report very properly calls attention to facts which make this excellent showing even better than these figures do, such as the increase of 250 in the number of inmates during the year, the payment of bills left over by the old boards and a large gain over the previous year in supplies on hand. The latter was due to the system of wholesale purchases for all the institutions together by which lower prices, with discounts, are secured, and also to the careful inspection and giving out of supplies which have prevented waste.

Taking these items into account and deducting all expenses of the board itself, the true saving for the year was $567,164.

We could find little satisfaction in this remarkable result if it had been accomplished by impaired efficiency in the work which the state has undertaken by these institutions. But there is no such check on our gratification. On the contrary it is quickened, because in this instance, as always, sound business methods and fidelity in practical things has awakened the true spirit which leads to betterment in all directions.

The state hospital at Lima will come under the board's jurisdiction when completed, as it soon should be, and the home at Xenia ought to be placed under it. But in view of its present work alone, the board should be relieved of duty under the parole law, at least with respect to applications for parole. This work should be transferred to the board of pardons. This idea was favorably considered at the last session, but in view of the strenuous opposition the board of administration bill encountered, it was thought best not to amend it in this respect.

The Penitentiary.

The penitentiary has presented greater difficulties than any other institution. The abolition of the contract system created a perplexing situation. Idleness is deplorable from every point of view, and conditions made it hard to avoid with the promptness desired. The board made a large offset to the loss of revenue by reducing the cost of maintenance $49,686 below the cost of the same items in 1911. And efforts were made to secure road work, but these generally failed because the county authorities could not or would not co-operate, though the state highway department did what it could.

The state quarry has been opened and a stone crusher installed. The quarry is ready for operation, and is expected to furnish stone for the Women's reformatory at Marysville, now under contract. The farm of 440 acres at Morgans Station has been cultivated each year since it was established. Prisoners have been sent to do work at various institutions which was formerly hired. And a considerable number have found employment in changing the buildings and improving the grounds in the penitentiary, as well as in handling supplies at the warehouse established there by the board for purchases for general use.

The board finds it necessary to recommend appropriations for new buildings at institutions which have become badly overcrowded, and I advise that this work be freed from the present necessity of letting contracts, so that labor and material from the penitentiary and the reformatory may be used under the supervision of the board, which has an architect and engineer under salary. This course will save much money and also afford employment for prisoners.

As the idea of abandoning the penitentiary and building a new one in some other locality still finds advocates, I call attention to the many strong reasons why this should not be done.

In 1908 the governor disapproved a bill to carry out this plan. Thereupon a joint committee was sent to examine penitentiaries throughout the country and report facts and recommendations. The senators and representatives who composed this committee did their work thoroughly. They visited most of the newer and better penitentiaries in various states and made a report full of useful information, which I commend to your attention. Among other facts they showed that the area of our prison enclosure, 23 acres, exceeds that of most prison sites; that the cost of a new penitentiary would be heavy; and that it was entirely feasible, at reasonable cost, to secure proper sewerage, ventilation, etc., on the present site, and make all changes and improvements needed to modernize the institution. They therefore advised against a new penitentiary and in favor of improving the present one instead.

This plan was adopted and appropriations were made to carry it out. The work was commenced and has proceeded, with new appropriations from time to time, until the following improvements have been made:

Old cell block replaced by a new steel one; new dining hall built; new power house erected, equipped and in operation, now supplying light to the statehouse and soon to do the same for the state institutions at Columbus, as well as furnishing light and heat for the penitentiary and power for manufacturing there; old shops torn down and others rebuilt or repaired and ready for use, one of them now occupied as a general warehouse by the board, in others some industries are already installed and further ones are in view; a new and proper sewerage system; railroad switch into the grounds for direct delivery and shipment of coal, material and merchandise; heightening of enclosing walls; building of roads and walks throughout the grounds and beautifying them.

The amounts already spent for these purposes total over $600,000, not counting prison labor and material. These would be thrown away, as well as all the structures on the grounds, by abandoning the present site. The supplying of light to the other institutions would have to be given up, and the central warehouse plan for supplies, which has had much to do with the success of the new system of administration, would be seriously interfered with, because that plan requires prison labor and a location with facilities for prompt and direct shipments to and from all quarters. The same is true of sending prisoners out for road, quarry and other work in different parts of the state. No other location excels the present one in this respect and few equal it, certainly none whose selection should be controlled by the farm idea.

Farm Plan Merely Incidental.

A farm as a feature is desirable, but it can be merely an incidental one unless the foregoing advantages are to be sacrificed. Only a comparatively small number of prisoners can be employed in farm work even though thousands of acres were secured, and it occupies only part of the year in our climate. Indoor occupation would be necessary during many months.

I think the present farm should be enlarged, but it would be a mistake ever to allow it to develop into a separate institution, according to the usual tendency. The present plan is working well and would do so with more land.

I am in full accord with the idea that imprisonment should be made the occasion for reform of prisoners, both for their families' sake and that of the public. But it must not be forgotten that the primary purpose is punishment and that, as long experience has proved, many prisoners are hardened criminals from whom society must be protected. Sentimentality, however, commendable, must not be allowed to displace practical considerations and impose needless cost on the taxpayers.

I am not without some experience in the building of penitentiaries and am certain a new one would cost many millions of dollars. Appropriations for the Lima State hospital amount to $1,647,515 already. The estimate for 1913 is $461,700, and for 1914 $116,700, making the total $2,225,915, without fixtures or furniture.

For obvious reasons, a new penitentiary would cost much more than this. There could be no benefits to the people of the state, or to the prisoners, which would be at all commensurate with the enormous outlay which would be required.

When the committee appointed at the last session visited the institution in my company the tearing down of buildings was in progress, the new work was not completed, the grounds were littered with debris and material, and there was an unusual number of idle prisoners. I think that the eyes of the majority influenced their judgment when they advised abandonment and building anew in some other locality. Things look different now, though work is still going on, and I bespeak another visit.

State Board of Awards.

I call special attention to the report of this board. It has undertaken a novel and beneficent work which, when fully understood, must appeal to the judgment and hearts of all citizens.

The law passed at the last session after many disputes and difficulties has proved to be, by general consent of the competent and impartial, the best in the country. And, considering the delicate and difficult task of putting it in operation, the board has made most commendable progress.

It has had to encounter from the start shrewd and vigorous opposition from the liability insurance companies. This was to be expected, but not of the unscrupulous character shown. The courts have upheld the law. Its administration has been well organized and employers in constantly growing numbers are joining the movement. It may safely be said that success is now assured.

The board recommends some minor changes in the law to make it more effective without changing its general scope, and I recommend that no further changes be made, at least until the light of further experience is thrown on the subject.

While it is now within your power to make employers contribute the entire fund, I think this should not be done. The reasons which led me to advocate joint contributions when the bill was under consideration have not lost but gained in weight since the law has been in operation.

Peace and good will between employers and employes are by no means the least of the objects in view. To these mutuality in the enterprise is essential. The 10 per cent of the fund now contributed by employes is a mere trifle to each because divided among a large number. I have been told that in some cases it is too small to be worth collecting. And it is less than employes who formerly carried insurance paid in premiums.

Superintendent of Public Works.

Under the provision of the constitution abolishing the board of public works, I have appointed John I. Miller, late chief engineer thereof, as superintendent. I advised him of my purpose in advance to give him time to make the needful plan and arrangements to take up his duties on Jan. 1. He finds two superintendents sufficient instead of five heretofore employed, and that the work of the secretary and the collector can be done by one person. He starts with a reduction of $15,000 in the salaries of employes and will continue the work in which he has been engaged of protecting the interests of the state with respect to use of water and the rentals paid therefor and clearing title to canal land claimed by occupiers.

Quite apart from the question of transportation, the canals and canal lands are our most valuable asset. With proper management they should produce a very considerable net revenue, and when the reorganization gets under way it may confidently be expected to provide the management.

Board of Boiler Rules.

The work done by this board during its first year has been excellent in all respects, especially in preventing explosions, whose frequent occurrence heretofore has been destructive of life and limb as well as property.

The bill for its creation, as prepared, covered all boilers, but it was amended so as to exclude boilers used in public road and bridge work and in pumping and boring for oil and on traction engines, the last named being used for threshing and other farm purposes. During the past year there have been five explosions of boilers of the excepted classes, causing a large loss of life and serious personal injuries. I am convinced that the omission of these was a mistake which should be rectified. The only reason given for it was the increased expense, but a proper boiler would not cost to exceed $15 to $20 more than the inferior boilers generally in use, while its longer life makes it cheaper in the end; and the cost of inspection would be only from $8 to $10 each. These amounts are pitifully small compared with the loss of one life or the maiming of a single citizen.

Bank Inspector.

The public service rendered by this department is notable. The bankers of the state pay it a high compliment by constantly recruiting their own force from its members. The requirements in character and capacity are so high that some increase in the pay of deputies is advisable so they can be kept in the state's employ.

I recommend that private banks and bankers be made subject to inspection, and, as the work done is valuable to the owners as well as to depositors, fairness requires that the former pay at least some part of the cost.

Superintendent of Insurance.

This officer, besides giving details of the excellent work of his department, calls attention to the wrongs done our citizens by the promoters of new insurance companies which have not been authorized to do business. Large amounts of stock are sold at greatly inflated values and extravagant commissions and promoters' charges are deducted from the proceeds. Certain and sometimes total loss to the buyer follows. I concur in the recommendation that it be made the duty of the department to prescribe the terms and conditions of sales of stock in insurance companies before as well as after admission to do business.

But this is only a specific instance of an evil of broader sweep. The same frauds are often perpetrated in sales of other stocks in spite of the activities of the federal government to prevent the prostitution of the mails. I recommend that the state, by appropriate legislation, use its broader powers to protect the innocent and unwary from those who prey upon them.

Attorney General.

It seldom falls to the lot of a public officer to do so much for the interests and good name of the state as the present attorney general has done. After prolonged litigation and decisions at first adverse, he has established the right to recover from bondsmen unlawful gains made by officials from the use of public funds. Through his efforts graft and defiance of law and order have been punished and evildoers generally put in wholesome fear.

In our commonwealth which demands high public morals, the result has naturally been frequent calls on him to lend a hand to the local authorities. This he can not do unless directed by you or the governor under G. C. 333, and sound policy has restricted the use of that authority to cases of more than mere local importance. Nevertheless, the demands upon him are hard to meet, largely because under G. C. 13560 only himself and his first assistant may appear before grand juries. I concur in his recommendation that this right be extended to any one of his regular legal force whom he may designate.

State Printer.

This officer has been compelled to rent temporary quarters because the old building became unsafe for use as a bindery. The rental paid is $6,000 per year, there being no proper room obtainable for less. There is canal land near the capitol convenient and available for which there is no other use. I recommend that this be assigned to him and that he be authorized to erect a suitable building, which it is estimated can be done for $15,000. Even if it should cost double that amount the investment would be highly profitable.

The state printing has grown to such proportions that the delays in doing it under the contract system, which have always caused embarrassment, are more aggravating than ever. For instance, you ought to have all official reports before you in print at the opening of the session, but can not get them under the present method. I advise that the state, through this officer, do its own printing.

Department of Agriculture.

The report of this department gives in detail the gratifying results of the close and intelligent attention given by the board and its secretary to the most important of all our industries. I must leave the report to speak for itself.

The last census showed an average loss of eight per township in our rural population. Among the causes of this was failure properly to make known the attractions she offers to agricultural settlers. Other states have been diligent in this respect to their great advantage, while Ohio has not only lost many of her farmers, but has failed to supply their places. I approve the request of the board for an appropriation to enable it to make exhibits of our agricultural resources on appropriate occasions out of the state.

Ohio is asked to send two representatives to visit various European countries, in connection with like representatives of other states, and investigate the system of rural credit and co-operation in force there which have been brought to public attention by the president and others. Arrangements have already been made and April next fixed for departure. The expense will be $1,500 for each person and I think Ohio should be represented.

Protection of Buyers of Chattels On Installments.

Buyers of property on the installment plan who could not complete the payments long suffered injustice through entire loss of payments made. Section 8570 of the General Code sought to give protection by providing that such property, when more than 25 per cent of the price has been paid, shall not be retaken without refunding the amount received, after deducting reasonable compensation for use and injury to the property, if any. Under the law the justices of the peace, before whom proceedings are inexpensive, have been able to give very general relief to unfortunate buyers, as the retaking of the property requires proceedings in replevin. But the sellers now resort to suits in the courts to declare and enforce a lien and have

Lock Is Broken Grocery Robbed

Some time Sunday night an unknown thief used a bar of steel in breaking the lock from the door of William Bell's grocery on East Temple street, and burglarizing the place of several dollars worth of meat, coffee and other goods.

Mr. Bell discovered the theft early Monday morning and immediately placed the matter in the hands of Chief McCoy, but as there was no clew left, there is little hope of catching the guilty party.

This is the second time since Mr. Bell opened his Temple street store that it has been burglarized.

I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and before it was all used the children were free and cured of their cough. I saved a doctor's bill for one 25c bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." A mean stuffy cold, with hoarse wheezy breathing is just the kind that runs into bronchitis or pneumonia. Engine Died Train Delayed

B. & O. passenger train No. 107, due here at 6:14 p. m., was tied up at Madison Mills some four hours Saturday night, when a flue burned out of the engine and the fire was drowned out.

When it became apparent that the engine was hopelessly "dead" word was sent to Midland City and another engine dispatched from there, pulling the belated train into this city four hours behind time.

The passengers suffered considerably from the cold, as the coaches quickly cooled off when their source of heat was cut off.

A supply of booze carried by the train was sold to the passengers, regardless of the fact that the train was in dry territory and standing still, and the affair has created no little comment.

Burglars Visit Hardware Store

Burglars again visited the Dice-Mark Hardware Company's store some time Friday night or Saturday morning, and relieved the company of five revolvers and a number of razors.

Although the robbery occurred sometime Friday night the articles were not missed until Saturday evening, and by that time there was little hope of apprehending the fellows. However, the matter was placed in the hands of the police, and two residences were searched for the goods, but no trace was found.

Entrance was gained through a rear window, and according to one story the fellow was heard in the rear of the store at an early hour Saturday morning, but no investigation was made at that time.

Champion Is Son Of "White Eagle"

Luther McCarty, the husky youth who defeated Al Palzer in a boxing bout for world's championship honors, in Los Angeles, New Year's night, is a son of "White Eagle", or Dr. McCarty, who visited this city some eighteen months ago and attracted much attention with his pair of white horses, greyhound and more particularly by his enormous size.

White Eagle lives in Piqua and stands 6 feet six inches in height, weighing 300 pounds. The son is a man of about 21 years, and is one of the most powerfully built men in the United States.

Young McCarty is now the white champion boxer of the world. He refuses to fight a colored man.

BELIEVE PLAN WOULD PROVIDE AN IMPARTIAL COURT OF ARBITRATION

NO ARBITRATION OF CANAL TOLLS

Senate the Barrier In Path of Fulfillment of Taft's Desire.

WILSON THE MAN TO SETTLE IT

President Had In Mind, In His New York Speech, Not the Hague Court, but a Special Tribunal Made Up Equally of Citizens of the United States and Great Britain—Importance of Taft's Utterance.

Washington, Jan. 6.—On the return of President Taft from New York it became known that it is not The Hague permanent court of arbitration, but a special tribunal, which he has in mind in connection with his proposal that the Panama canal dispute be submitted to arbitration. The president believes that this tribunal should be made up equally of citizens of the United States and Great Britain. Such a tribunal, according to Mr. Taft's views, would be the nearest possible approach to an impartial bench.

The exclusion of third parties from the tribunal would convince the peoples of both the United States and Great Britain, it is contended, that each government would receive an absolutely fair consideration of its case.

While no attempt is made to minimize the importance of President Taft's declaration in favor of arbitration of the Panama canal tolls dispute with Great Britain, present indications in Washington make it doubtful if the matter will ever be referred to an arbitral tribunal. The senate, without the consent of which there can be no arbitration, is the stumbling block in the path of the fulfillment of the president's announced intention.

It is the impression here that President Wilson really will be the man to settle the question whether the executive shall seek arbitration of the canal dispute.

The arbitration treaty names the permanent court of arbitration established at The Hague in the conference of 1907 as the court of arbitration for disputes between the United States and Great Britain. Great latitude is allowed the parties to the disrute however, in making up the tribunal which is to hear the case.

Italian Footpad Who Masqueraded as a Woman In the Toils.

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 6.—After masquerading as a woman, during which time he held up and robbed four women in the village streets in six days, Antonio Palici was arrested in the main thoroughfare as he was trailing an elderly woman who displayed a handbag. Officer Frittitti made the arrest. At the time of his arrest, Palici had a woman's veil in his pocket. He is undersized and worked sometimes as a man, but more often as a woman. Officer Frittitti searched his home and found a purse and articles stolen from Mrs. Ella Smith of Newark, who was stopping here.

the property sold, thus inflicting the same hardship on the buyer. The right to do this has been upheld by the United States circuit court of appeals in the National Cash Register case, 174 Fed. 179, deciding that relief under the statute is limited to cases where the buyer merely seeks to retake the property. The result is that the wrong still flourishes, and I recommend that it be cured by an amendment of the above section.

The Governor recommends an additional appropriation for the Perry victory centennial and that the executive be authorized to cede to the federal government the title to the land purchased at Put-in-Bay for the erection of a permanent memorial. He also promises additional messages covering subjects not mentioned in the present document.

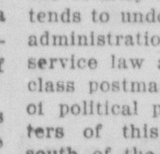

HITS FOURTH-CLASS P. M.'S

Report That New Congress Will Repeal Civil Service Act.

New York, Jan. 6.—The fourth-class postmasters, now under the protection of the civil service, are agitated over the rumor that has gone all over the country that the new congress intends to undo the work of Republican administration by rescinding the civil service law and shunting the fourth-class postmasters back into the field of political patronage. The postmasters of this class that are located south of the Ohio river and west of the Mississippi are particularly worried, because they only got in under the civil service roof last October.

the second time a woman named Mary Morrow of Paterson. She was fined $25. Later she told Captain Tracy that she was paying a man of the name of Ribuffo $30 a week for protection from police interference. The matter was turned over to the federal authorities, and Special Agent Pignuello was put on the case. He found that Ribuffo was connected with the Mott street gang.

While he was looking for evidence against Ribuffo the Morrow woman took him to Annie Greco, another inmate of a disorderly house of Paterson. Ribuffo had helped to bring the Creco woman from respectable surroundings in New York to Paterson.

The Greco woman said she had been paying a man of the name of Filasto half of the money she made. Filasto was arrested here. The two women are being held as material witnesses. Both men have been indicted by the federal grand jury.
